October 2, 1962

Dear Mr. Meredith,

I wish to express my deepest admiration for your courage and bravery. Not many of us would have such courage, nor be brave enough, to stand alone with our convictions against so many.

Although I am not of your race, I sympathize with the problems you must face and can only wish that the word "bigotry" had no place in our language.

Again, congratulations and best wishes.

Sincerely,

Marjorie White
